Brady Schroer, D.O., receives board certification in Addictions Medicine

(Hendersonville, N.C.) Brady Schroer, D.O., a psychiatrist on the Psychiatric and Addictions Therapeutic Healing Services (PATHS) inpatient and outpatient unit at Pardee Hospital, has received board certification in Addictions Medicine by the American Board of Addictions Medicine and the American Society of Addictions Medicine.

The American Board of Addictions Medicine recognizes addictions medicine physicians that demonstrate to the American public that they have excelled in skills that prevent, recognize and treat addiction. In order to receive such recognition, a physician must meet high standards of clinical judgment and patient care in addiction medicine, 1920 hours in addiction medicine (teaching, research, administration and clinical care), 50 hours of continuing medical education within the past two years and pass a six-hour written examination.

The American Society of Addictions Medicine is dedicated to improving quality of patient care as well as educating physicians to support research and prevention of addiction.
