Pardee Hospital Foundation hires new development officers

(Hendersonville, N.C.) Pardee Hospital Foundation has hired two new development officers to help fulfill the foundation's mission of raising money for the community's hospital and to educate area residents and businesses about the hospital's needs and services.

Emily H. Reback joined the Pardee Foundation team as a development officer in December. Reback's prior experience includes serving as a regional major gifts officer for a health and human services nonprofit in Asheville and working in the financial services industry in Hong Kong and Australia. She is a graduate of Asheville School, Meredith College and the University of Queensland's TC Beirne School of Law.

Reback volunteers with the American Red Cross of Henderson County, the Garden Club of Hendersonville and has been elected to serve on the Board of Directors of the Junior League of Asheville in 2011-12.

Elizabeth Willson Moss joined the Pardee Foundation team as a development officer in February. Before joining the foundation, Moss served in Hendersonville as features and day editor at the Times-News and editor of Mountain Traditions magazine, as interim director of a church preschool and as an adjunct professor at UNC-Asheville. She also worked as an award-winning journalist at newspapers in Miami, St. Petersburg and Boston before moving to Henderson County in 1998.

Moss, a graduate of the University of Florida's School of Journalism and Communications, is a member of the Kiwanis Club of Hendersonville and has served as president of the Hendersonville High School Band Boosters and as a deacon at First Presbyterian Church of Hendersonville.

“I am pleased these two candidates joined our team and brought their expertise,” said Myra Grant, the Foundation’s Executive Director and Pardee’s Vice President for Community Accountability and Philanthropy. “Their knowledge of the community and the Western North Carolina region will greatly enhance our efforts.”

Pardee Hospital Foundation is celebrating its 15th anniversary this year with a series of special events that will kick off with the Tournament of Champions at Kenmure Golf Course on May 16. Pardee Foundation has raised more than $25 million since 1996 to support the hospital’s mission to provide excellent patient care, improve the community’s health and education and invest in life-extending technology.
