Pardee presents Shooting Star Award

(Hendersonville, N.C.) Pardee Hospital presented Shooting Star awards in October to Fran Templeton, Outpatient Rehabilitation, and Mark Holiday, Materials Management.

The Shooting Star Award recognizes Pardee associates who consistently go above and beyond in their jobs and serve as role models to their fellow associates. Winners are nominated by their co-workers to receive the award.

Templeton's co-workers say she is a dedicated Pardee associate who is always willing to help when needed. She is friendly, conscientious and has a calming influence. They say that she always has a smile on her face and is versatile, helping out in all areas of outpatient rehabilitation. Co-workers say Templeton has a knack for anticipating the needs of patients and coworkers, making sure they have what they need before they ask for it.

Holiday is known for always stopping what he is doing to help others whenever he sees a need, without being asked to do so. He is always positive and a great example of a team player that motivates the entire team to do better. He is efficient and can handle many projects at one time.
